We Continue the Sale of Taffeta Silk Etons at $12.

Worth From $20 to $27.50.

The lot was a very large one, and no doubt would have been disposed of the past week had it not been for the Rain God's legions of showers. Despite the inclement weather, however, the response was very active and large, and about one-half are gone. So those of you who did not share may thank the rain for this opportunity of getting one of the best values ever offered. One of the features of this lot of Etons is the choice variety. There are about twelve different styles. The chance of closing out from an importer such desirable and stylish garments at less than half price is one that does not often occur. So, choose while the lot is still large and the va-thoroughness of making and finish without seeing them. There's scarcely a wardrobe but will be richer by the addition of one of these charming laffeta Silk Waists. $4.75 for $8.50 to $9.50 values.

Fine Undermuslins at Moderate Prices.

It is perhaps unnecessary to dwell at length at this time on the invariable excellence of the Parker-Bridget Undermuslins. It's a fact pretty well established. Frequently have we cited how carefully scrutinized are all applicants for admission herethus it is almost impossible for any but the choicest goods and best styles to find representation in our offerings.

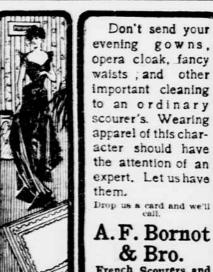

Those who have already purchased their Muslin Undergarments here can verify our words and can attest to the very moderate prices that are ever associated with these always worthy goods. Exceptionally great are the values in the 85c., 95c., $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 lots.

The Classique and C. B. Corsets

Are the two makes sold by us-and the world holds no better. The former of French manufacture - the latter, as you all know, one of the best of American makes. Our success in this line has been almost as great as that in undermuslins-due, of course, to the fact of our placing reasonable prices on highly meritorious goods.

The Senators continued their good work at Chicago yesterday by defeating the Comiskeyites of that city by 7 to 5. In addition to the splendid victory, Philadelphia won from Detroit and the Washington boys ascended the championship ladder, landing in second place. These two events are quite notable in the local history of the

such a dizzy height on the road. Wyatt Lee began the twirling for Washington, but he got into difficulties in the fifth inning and "Wee Willie" Carrick had to go to the rescue. The latter did this in splendid style, and the game was clinched for Washington through Carrick's great work, only one run being made after he went on the rubber. Clarke Griffith, conceded to be one of the best twirlers in the business today, was on the rubber for Chicago, but his start was poor and the lead secured by the Senators could not be overcome, although a game effort was made to do so. Griffith's support was poor, both in the field and on the bases, Shortstop Shugart and Third Baseman Hartman being the transgressors in the error column, each having two misplays marked up against him. On the bases Shugart is reported to have done some very stupid work, but one thing should not be lost sight of and that is that the throwing of the Washington fielders was chiefly responsible for the Chicago shortstop's poor showing.

Back of Lee and Carrick the Senators worked like well-oiled pieces of machinery, Billy Clingman and Coughlin making many brilliant plays, while Joe Quinn killed off everything that came his way. Behind the bat Grady was a tower of strength, and the same applies to the dragnets carried by the outfielders. At the bat the score shows a strange distribution of safe hits, Foster having four and Quinn three, a total of seven out of the ten made by the entire team. There is no gainsaying the fact that these two men have proved un-usually valuable to the Washington club, and notwithstanding Quinn's bad start, he is at present playing the best game of any one in the American League at second

The runs scored by Washington came in luscious bunches, five being marked up in the first and two in the ninth. The first bunch was the result of two bases on two bunch was the result of two bases on two two errors and two singles, followed by a two eracking double from off Grady's bat. In cracking double from off Grady's bat. In over the plate and as two more were scored in the fifth the situation looked promising from a windy city standpoint. But in the ninth Washington mixed a base hit with errors, and as a result a pair of tallies was chalked up. To offset this, Chicago could only make one run and the contest was over and in favor of Washing-

Dale Gear Shuts Out Milwankee Through Superb Pitching. Dale Gear pitched one of the sort

Saturday, and as 1 result the Washington team shut out the Frewers by 3 to 0. But two hits were obtained of Gear's delivery and one of these was of the scratch order. Gear has had bad luck this spring, his work being of the in-and-out order, one day pitching splendidly and the next being hammered all over the lots. Manager Manning has been positive that it was only a question of time when Gear would round question of time when Gear would round to his true form, and from Saturday's exhibition it is more than probable that the Kansas City boy has come to stay. Back of Gear's pitching the fielding of the Senators was of the best. Only two errors are charged up against them, one by Coughlin and the other by Everitt, but they were not of the costly sort and can be forgiven. On the other hand many sensational plays were made by the in and outfielders, which kept the Milwaukees from getting a runner as far as third base. As usual with Gear's pitching the outfield had plenty to do and did it well, Farrell and Foster getting eleven put-outs between them.

Virgil Garvin did the twirling for the Virgil Garvin did the twirling for the Brewers and his work was unusually clever, but failed to show off at its true worth on account of Gear's sensational twirling. The Senators got but six hits off his pitching, and the work of the men who supported him was first class, but one misplay being made. Garvin got in two wild pitches which were costly, but Clarke's lucky single and Coughlin's triple would have turned the trick without this assistance.

have turned the trick without this assistance.

Washington's first run came in the fifth, as a result of a single and a triple, mentioned above. In the seventh Clingman reached first on his single and went around to third on a wild pitch, Coughlin's long fly sending him over the plate. Dungan sent out a corking double in the eighth and chased up to third on a long fly and out to right. Garvin then sent in a wild pitch and Sam crossed the plate with the third and last run. ## LAST GAME A DEFEAT.

Final Contest of the Season. Pennsylvania defeated Georgetown in oase ball Saturday in Philadelphia 8 to 4, in a game full of errors and at the same time replete with brilliant plays. The fact that the blue and gray has heretofore been the bete noir of the university teams no doubt accounted for the large number of Pennsylvania students who were present and whose incessant and systematic cheering practically won the game for the red and blue. A large bass drum and two cornets were pressed into service, and together with lusty voices of the students, made so much noise that Blewitt, Georgetown's pitcher, not only lost his bearings, but the entire team accompanied him in an aerial ascension, and by the time terra firma was reached Pennsylvania had scored four runs and won the game.

reached Pennsylvania had scored four runs and won the game.

Blewitt was elected to twirl for the Washington boys, and he blanked Penn for the first two innings. In the third Collier's single, Darling's fumble of White's grounder, Gawthrop's two-bagger and singles by Newman and Flavell scored three runs. In the fourth Noble singled and Brown received a pass; then the rooting began, and the Georgetown infield threw the ball to all parts of the diamond. Eight men batted in the inning, and the errors, together with a long single by Jones, gave Pennsylvania four runs. This ended Blewitt's career and Cox replaced him. A base on reer and Cox replaced him. A base on balls to Noble and Leary's triple in the fifth scored the eighth and last run.

Georgetown scored two in the second on Collier's error, a hit for two bases and a single. The last two were made in the fifth, when Georgetown landed on Leary for a home run, followed by a two-bagger and a single.

Collier's base running, Flavell's great throwing, Jones' work at first and Drill's performance at the bat were the features. Leary pitched a good game, allowing but seven hits, and his judgment in playing the batsmen was a clever exhibition.

This was Georgetown's last game of the season, the record standing seventeen victories and only four defeats. Saturday night Shortstop Moran was elected captain of the team for next season, being the only
